DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification does not contain any specific mention of the needle/cannula assembly being pre-assembled. Although the specification implies that both needle insertion and cannula insertion occur close together in time, there is nothing that implies that the two must be assembled prior to use.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claims 10, 11, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hattler (US 4,846,791). Hattler discloses a cannula/needle combination including the cannula (10) surrounding the solid sharpened needle (30) in a snug fit with clearances formed between the cannula and needle substantially along the needle (Figures 1, 2, and 3) to communicate fluid in the clearances.

2. Claims 10-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Finch et al (US 6,120,492). Finch et al disclose in Figure 3a a pre-assembled needle/cannula combination including a catheter (10) in fluid combination with the combination, a needle (130) comprising a solid piercing member (132), and a cannula (120) surrounding the needle (130) in a snug fit, but still providing a clearance extending substantially along the length of the needle between the inner wall of the cannula and the outer wall of the needle to allow fluid to be communicated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hattler. Hattler discloses the claimed invention except for the cannula and catheter as separate elements. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the single catheter/cannula as disclosed in Hattler to a plurality of element because making a plurality of elements from a single element is an obvious design choice and Applicant has not stated that using two element solves a stated problem or is for a particular purpose and it appears that the use of a single element accomplishes the same function, in the same way, with the same result. Applicant has not established criticality in using two elements in place of one.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 5/8/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Examiner points out that the definition of "needle" as provided by onelook.com is "a sharp pointed implement." The divider of Hattler is a sharp, pointed instrument, and can therefore be considered a needle. Furthermore, the "needle," of Hattler meets all the limitation of claim 1: it comprises a substantially sharpened piercing end, it is surrounded by a cannula in a snug fit, and a clearance is configured between the cannula and needle.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
